

2006 State CIO Models and Case Studies

Project Nomination Background

The November 2005 California State Information Technology Strategic Plan <http://www.cio.ca.gov/StrategicPlan.html> page 8, Goal 1, Objective 1, Action 2, directs the State CIO, by March 2006, to identify at least five projects that will serve as models or case studies for e-Services investment including;

- a. A project focused on the delivery of services to citizens (such as licensing, or call center services, or recreation and visitor information, or consumer protection, or electronic payment and filing).
- b. A project focused on delivery of services to businesses (such as licensing, or workers compensation, or electronic payment and filing).
- c. A project focused on services that integrate intergovernmental programs (such as self-service eligibility determinations, or online grants processing, or social services benefits delivery).
- d. A project focused on delivery of services internal to state operations (such as online travel and human resources transactions, or data sharing between state agencies).
- e. A project focused on reorganization of information on departmental web pages.
